The camp is organized entirely in English and the entire staff is made up of qualified mother-tongue instructors and teachers. All sports, activities, training exercises and traditional classroom lessons are held in English. Children have the opportunity to improve their language skills while acquiring valuable skills in outdoor activities. Every day the participants are involved in a new outdoor discipline, which for many of them will represent a totally new challenge. Each sport is preceded by a briefing and once the children have been properly instructed and informed of the safety measures necessary to practice the activity without danger they go into action and get involved by climbing a vertical wall, rafting on rapids, pedaling on a mountain bike through the woods, honing your orientation techniques in an unknown territory, exploring valleys and mountains in a fantastic two-day trek, and much more.
